

The rumors to the effect that Schofield had been defeated with the loss of 1,500 men and 60 pieces of artillery, were probably set afloat for the purpose of affecting the gold market. The reports are discredited. At the war department, besides our forces have quit that sort of business. The later dispatches report Schofield all right.

Good news has been received from Sheridan. The remnant of Early's forces have fled to the mountains. The rebel army is believed to be broken up.

Grant's army is reported quiet. Deserters continue to come in, and it is said the rebels have colored troops on picket duty at the front. Richmond papers advise the military authorities to keep a sharp watch on Grant as he may pounce upon them at any moment.

A whole company of the 6th N. C. cavalry came into our line at Newbern, recently. They say that Kingston is being evacuated, and that the South Carolina troops are the first to give in and acknowledge that the South is whipped.

Sherman's cavalry have killed the rebel Col. Aiken, and Wade Hampton's Adjutant General. The rebels say Sherman has completely devastated that portion of the country through which he passed in South Carolina, not sparing a house in his track.

Sheridan's official dispatch, detailing the destruction of the railroad and canal in the vicinity of Charlottesville, was received too late for this evening's paper.

The types quoted gold on Saturday at 198, when it ought to have been 189. It is quoted at 191 to-day.

Tombs Denouncing Davis.
Robert Tombs delivered a fierce speech at Augusta, Georgia, on the 16th ultimo, in which he portrayed the great dangers of the South and denounced the rebel government.

Our bad management and bad legislation are the great dangers that beset us. Men are outraged almost as much where the enemy has not been, as where he has been. The great cause of desertion and discontent are, the oppressive and unconstitutional exactions of the government. When the war commenced it was worth a premium to go into the ranks. Everywhere everybody wanted to go. Many were rejected. Those who went were allowed to go under men of their choice, and these men stepped from the cars in Virginia and swept the veterans of the United States army before them. After the option of the conscript law, he had not seen an adult volunteer, and the war had gradually subsided. He was gratified to see from the crowd before him, many of whom are in the service, and from the returns of the late election, that all the people are not dead yet. The Constitution gives the power to command the last army, and the last dollar to sustain the public defense, and there is no excuse for the plundering schemes adopted—forcing the people to hide their supplies to keep from being robbed of them. There is plenty of money. He observed that a small mistake of four hundred million dollars had just been discovered, and yet the common soldiers had not been paid in a year, and if a soldier wants one he must "press it."

No army in the world can be preserved under such management. Hungry men will become demoralized. This is your country—your cause—and you must look to the cause of the evil that beset us, and remedy them. We must begin at the very root of the evil and apply the true remedy. He was aware that this is a delicate ground. A bad captain made a bad company, and the same rule applies to those in high places. If they are incompetent or derelict, off with their heads—so much for Buckingham.

GEN. GRANT has completed his railroad to Hatcher's Run, and on the 28th ult., the scream of the locomotive startled the echoes through that dreary mud-riddle. The terminus of the road is at the headquarters of the 2d Corps. Its official name is City Point & Army Line, though it is generally called Grant's Railroad. It is said that this road, built almost as fast as the army marches, is as firm and true to time as any in the country. But one accident has occurred, and that was the blowing up of an engine, killing the engineer.

AN ACT for amending the Constitution of Minnesota so as to allow colored persons to vote, has been passed by the Legislature of that State. The measure was introduced by the Hon. Charles Griswold, and carried successfully through mainly by his exertions. On the 28th ult., a delegation in behalf of the colored citizens of St. Paul presented him with an elegant gold-headed cane as an acknowledgment of their gratitude.

The city of Dubuque is in great excitement now, in consequence of bold and numerous depredations committed recently by burglars. One citizen was shot while protecting his property. The city is full of desperate characters, and the present excitement will result in expelling them. Two of the scoundrels were arrested and other arrests are anticipated.

The Cincinnati Commercial, alluding to Vice-President Johnson's remarkable speech at the Inauguration, pointedly suggests that "the Vice-President, we fear, furnishes an additional reason why the American people should be glad to hear of the good health of Abraham Lincoln, and the failure of the fool who proposed to assassinate him."

The Bank of Virginia is redeeming its notes in gold, at the rate of one in gold for six in currency. The Richmond Enquirer calls upon the government to seize the gold to protect and defend Richmond.

Spain is in full blast in Vigo county, Indiana, and the season is said to be favorable.

Letter from Harmony—No. 4.

(For the Gazette.)

Messrs. Editors:—I am so much pleased with the letters of your other town correspondents and the universally good use of your columns, that I hesitate to intrude upon your space. But as no other one has appeared in your paper from our town, I will venture to address you again. I do not deem it of great interest to the public at large to be informed of the many transfers of real estate, which are as frequently made in our town, perhaps, as in any other, or the erection of new buildings which mark the progress of our local improvements. We are just now laughing up our sleeves because the chintz bugs were thawed out and have now got such a jump from Jack Frost. I think they are in about the same fix of Jeff that is, "done for." We have been very fortunate in keeping our men at home, and still doing our full duty in the way of replenishing the noblest army the world can boast. The people are well pleased with the way it was done. But it soured on the stomach of now and then one, as the lowering brow and heavy chin indicated. Such of course are men whose God is their money and whose patriotism all lies on the surface.

Our fellow-townsmen, Dr. S. N. Smith, who broke his leg a few weeks ago, is still a great sufferer, and fears are entertained that he may never get up, but his patience is great and his faith strong, which goes a great way towards recovery.

Eighty-six years ago, Gen. Lincoln (significant name) swept through the south somewhat as Sherman is doing. Charleston was held at that time by Uncle Abraham's namesake, with a tenacity and success that did honor to the name of Lincoln; and Prevost ran a la Bragg and Beauregard. In 1779, Gen. Lincoln besieged Savannah, but by orders of his superior raised the siege. Thank God, the Lincoln of to-day has no ranking officer, and Savannah, too, has fallen. The rebellion is rapidly gathering up its feet in death. While Sherman picks the flesh off the crumbling carcass and strews their streets with ashes, they will say of him, as Trenchard did of Governors Tryon and Vaughn:

"Behold like whelps of British blood, Our warriors, Clinton, Vaughan and Tryon, March forth with patriotic joy, To crush the tyrant and destroy the nation—The journey of desolation!"

The Confederate authorities are getting sick, and Grant and Sherman thinking their case of a billious nature, are about to diet them on light rations, and though Richmond boasts the largest flouring mill in the world, being twelve stories high, and having three, and a half acres of flooring, it cannot keep the heart of the rebellion throbbing after their storehouses are emptied by the victorious Sherman, and the great jaguars are corded down and cut by the noble Grant.

HARMONY.
March 10, 1865.

Some twenty soldiers belonging to the 22d Indiana regiment, reserve corps, on detached service at Laporte, Ind., were poisoned last Monday, by a negro cook. None of them have died. Arsenic was found in the food prepared for them. The negro is in jail.

GEN. SHERMAN is being relieved by the conservative people of North Carolina in a most hearty manner, all of whom have given up all hopes of the success of the Confederacy, and are apparently willing to return to loyalty to the government.

The late Chief Justice Taney lived and died a Roman Catholic. His wife was a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church. His only son died in infancy, and his five daughters followed the faith of the mother, who is spoken of as a woman of great excellencies of character.

NOTWITHSTANDING the refusal of the Senate, at the last session, to recognize Arkansas by the acquisition of her Senators, they confirmed the nominations of United States Attorneys and Marshals for the judicial districts of that state.

The accounts from Charleston are of a character to draw tears from the eyes of the fugitive chivalry now dodging about in various retreats to escape the visitation of the Yankees. The city is garrisoned by negro troops. Over the mantelpiece in the office of the Charleston Mercury, is inscribed, "For President in 1868, Vice-President, Frederick Douglas, of New York." In the editorial room of the same paper, a family of negroes was found quarreling, on the Federal occupation of the city, and as we predicted would soon occur, an Abolition paper is being printed on the type of the Mercury, edited in part, it was said, by the man who wrote a life of old John Brown, and we apprehend carried one of his "pikes" at Harper's Ferry.

All the way from Gotham there comes a good story about the juicy joker Saxe to the effect that, once taking a trip up the Hudson, he fell in with a lively young lady to whom he made himself very agreeable (as his will or his wont). Of course, he made an impression upon the damsel, he said at parting, "Good by, Mr. Saxe, but I fear you'll soon be forgetting me." "Ah! miss," said the inveterate punster, "if I were not such a very married man, already, you may be sure I'd be for getting you."

A nice young man at Cleveland gave his income to the Assessor at several thousand dollars, paid the tax, and had the pleasure of seeing his name in the list among the nabobs of the country. On the strength of this he courted a wealthy man's daughter, and married her. Then it was found that he had no money, and had sold his mother's watch to pay the income tax.

rail car, and of more rapid traveling than by coach or engine. At the same time we will talk of a more wonderful time piece than Uncle Jacob's watch. Its majestic dial plate, so beautifully figured and gemmed, tells a tale of time which no mathematician can compute and no zealot can deny. But here we are all on board, almost unconsciously journeying at the rate of 1,040 miles an hour supposing the center of the earth to be stationary. But the globe itself, parting the heavens, rushes on, hurried by the hand of Omnipotence 1,130 miles every minute, and you and I are passengers. When you begin reading this article you were more than one thousand miles in the rear of your present location. Now put your finger on your pulse, and for every throb count twenty miles. Suppose you sleep from nine in the evening to five in the morning, you will then have been carried 540,000 miles during that pleasant nap. You must travel 160,000,000 miles before you can enjoy the bloom and freshness of spring, and hundreds of millions more before the luscious fruits of autumn shall greet your taste. There is no steam to blind, no screaming whistle to deafen or, bell to notify us of a station ahead. No jarring, no jostling on board, but silent as a dying dream the whirling sphere keeps on its way around the burning sun, its tether-post.

Now suppose you were placed on a fixed point at such a distance as to see the earth with its brilliant atmosphere, its magnificent scenery and busy population winging its flight through space, and the reverential moon bowing to its behests, (reverential because it never turns its back), and thousands of glittering meteors diving through its eddying air, how grand would be the sight! How infinitely surprising! A writer for the American Sunday School Union says: "To angels and other superior intelligences when winging their flight from heaven to earth and through distant worlds, such august scenery may be frequently presented."
